

Stella B. Brown

PHILADELPHIA — Mrs. Stella B. Brown, 81, of 6536 Oxford Avenue, formerly of Shamokin, died Friday at 10:48 p.m. in John Kennedy Hospital, Philadelphia, where she was last admitted Friday morning. Death terminated an illness of six months.

Born in Shamokin, Dec. 10, 1901, Mrs. Brown was a daughter of Anthony and Michalina Szczesny. She had been a resident of Philadelphia since 1956. She worked in Shamokin woolen mills until moving to Philadelphia, where she was employed at the University of Pennsylvania library.

Mrs. Brown was married April 17, 1926, in St. Stanislaus Church to John Brown, who survives. She attended St. Stanislaus School and was a member of St. William's Church, Philadelphia; St. Stanislaus Church, Shamokin, and Catholic Daughters, Shamokin.

Survivors include the husband; two daughters, Mrs. John (Rosemary) Rudik and Mrs. Dominick (Louise) Pascali, both of Philadelphia; one son, John A. Brown Jr., Philadelphia; seven grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Victoria Chambers and Mrs. Sally Moore, both of Philadelphia, and several nieces and nephews.